

Destiny 2

Accessibility Score: ★★☆☆☆

Destiny 2 is a sprawling universe of alien worlds, fierce battles, and high-speed firefights. For blind players, success comes from mastering sound cues, building location memory, and choosing gear that complements your playstyle.

Location Awareness: Learning the Solar System by Sound

- Start with Familiar Zones: Begin with a single PvE area like the Cosmodrome or a small Crucible map before branching out.
- Memorize Landmarks: Use environmental sounds like waterfalls, wind tunnels, or enemy chatter to orient yourself.
- Break Into Zones: Divide each map into key sections (spawn points, high-traffic lanes, cover spots).
- Recognize Transition Sounds: Elevator hums, door slides, and load-zone chimes indicate movement between areas.

Combat Hearing: Turning Audio into Intel

- Enemy Audio Cues: Fallen have mechanical growls, Hive screech, and Vex emit a robotic hum—knowing these helps predict attack styles.
- Weapon Sound Profiles: Every weapon archetype sounds unique—learn the distinct crack of scout rifles vs. the rapid pop of SMGs.
- Supers & Abilities: Supers have dramatic audio tells (Golden Gun's click, Nova Bomb's charge-up) that warn you of incoming threats.
- Hit Confirmation: Impact and shield break sounds confirm successful shots without visual feedback.

PvE Blind Play Strategies

- Close-Quarters Weapons: Shotguns, SMGs, and fusion rifles work well when engaging enemies you can hear but not see.
- Defensive Play: Use Titan Barricades or Warlock Rifts to create safe zones while orienting yourself.
- Mob Farming by Audio: In wave-based activities, listen for spawn cues to pre-aim areas before enemies arrive.

Destiny 2

PvP (Crucible) Tactics Without Vision

- Map Anchoring: Stick to one section of the map to reduce unpredictable movement.
- Footstep Differentiation: Enemy steps are sharper; teammate movement blends with ambient chatter.
- Control Objective Sounds: Zone capture beeps and flag announcements guide positioning.
- Sound-Led Flanking: Use audio to track enemy gunfire and rotate toward weaker lines.

Gear and Subclass Choices for Blind Play

- Titans: Sentinel (audio-rich shield throws, protective bubble sound).
- Hunters: Arc Staff (audible swings, mobility for quick escapes).
- Warlocks: Well of Radiance (clear cast sound, healing hum).
- Mods: Choose radar and melee range-enhancing mods for added non-visual feedback.

Fireteam Synergy

- Voice Comms: Essential for callouts, enemy spawns, and guiding movement.
- Role Specialization: Focus on support—healing, revives, or holding objectives while teammates push.
- Coordinated Supers: Plan chain abilities so teammates set up plays for your follow-through.

Training Drills for Guardians Without Sight

- Patrol Runs: Repeatedly traverse the same route to build instinctive movement.
- Strike Replay: Run the same strike multiple times to memorize enemy spawn sounds and encounter pacing.

Learn More

First impressions from a completely blind player
BLIND GAMER plays Destiny 2

